

WEDDING BELLS RING FOR PLYMOUTH COUPLE DECEMBER 2017

SQUIRE HOTELS

Sweethearts have been left speechless after finding out their dream day has been paid for. Plymouth's Jodie Weeks and Ryan Smith, both 24, admitted they are in 'shock' after being crowned the winners of Squire Hotels' Win a Wedding campaign.

The couple, who have been together for three years, hadn't planned to tie the knot for a number of years.

But after claiming the bumper prize package, worth more than £10,000, their wedding dreams will now become a reality in 2018, with their special day being held at Squire's Hydro Hotel, tucked away in the village of Bowness-on-Windermere.

"Both myself and Ryan really are in absolute shock," said Jodie.

"We cannot believe we have won our wedding! Recently, we have got ourselves on the property ladder and we knew it would be an extremely long time until we had the chance to get married.

"Ryan works away from home as he is part of the military, after finding out the news I can marry my best friend much sooner than expected, we feel it really is a blessing. We're so proud and so grateful."

The Win a Wedding competition saw budding brides and grooms from across the UK enter to be in with a chance of winning their big day. Hundreds of entries were received as the hotel teamed up with both North West-based and national suppliers for prizes.

"It's amazing what something like this can offer us," added Jodie.

"We are super excited to work with all the companies involved that will help make our day that little bit extra special. It's a fan

“We are super excited to work with all the companies involved that will help make our day that little bit extra special. It’s a fantastic opportunity and it really does take the stress away from wedding planning.”

Dresses, suits, the wedding cake and the venue are all part of the prize, leaving Jodie and Ryan to sort out the finishing touches which will make their wedding day extra special.

Jodi Masterson, managing director at Squire Hotels, said: “Congratulations to both Jodie and Ryan! Wedding days are a special part of people’s lives and we’re delighted to help make their dreams become a reality.

“We were inundated with entries, the response was incredible, now we are counting down to the big day.

“The Hydro is a beautiful venue which overlooks Lake Windermere and we’re sure both Jodi and Ryan, along with all their guests, will have a truly unforgettable day.”
